HEAD OVER HEELS

Cornerstone is singer Anja Schirmer, guitarist Stefan Wachelhofer, bassist Michael Wachelhofer and drummer Hannah Wachter. "Head Over Heels" is their debut album and it's a slick piece of work but it won't be to everybody's tastes. They're influenced by Brit-pop and general mainstream pop which becomes more than apparent after first listening to the album; there's also an indie rock influence in there too. Schirmer has a wonderful voice and when the backing vocals of bassist Wachelhofer come into effect the results are definitely enjoyable. The album does lack focus at times and I'm not totally convinced by some of the tracks. "Regret" and "Leave" are neatly composed and the band certainly knows how to make decent melodic rhythms, but the lyrics are just a bit too sentimental. An acquired taste.
