Keyboard legend Rick Wakeman is bringing a three-day music festival to Boston's Gliderdrome this autumn.

WakemanFest is a three day event that revolves around people Rick has worked with during his 40 years in the music industry and his own band, The English Rock Ensemble.

The festival will run from Friday, October 30 to Sunday, November 1 in the iconic Starlight Rooms where Rick has played with Yes in the Gliderdrome's heyday.

Rick said: "I wanted to create a festival I would want to go to myself."

"We have chosen the Boston Gliderdrome for this three-day event because of its amazing history. I remember playing there many times over the years, especially with Yes and The Strawbs. We are also hoping to organise various hotel deals for people to book into as well. It all starts on the Friday with a full day Saturday and a very special charity day on the Sunday which finishes around 5pm so everybody can head off home."

'Pop Divas' dance at the Gliderdrome

Preview by Dave Peatling

Iconic pop divas will entertain crowds at The Gliderdrome's Queens of Pop night later this month.

Tickets are now on sale for the dance on Saturday, July 25, featuring a Divas Night when the Queens of Pop will perform songs from Rhianna, Pink, Jennifer Lopez, Katy Perry, Jessie J, Beyonce and Lady Gaga.

It is expected this will be yet another sell-out show at the venue, with a high demands for tickets before they went on sale.

Steve Greenhough will be host and DJ as usual.

Tickets for the show are priced at £15 each.

Tickets can be bought at the Gliderdrome in Spain Place, Boston, on Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Tuesday evenings after 7pm and on Wednesday afternoons 12noon until 3.30pm; at Burgess, Thompson and Richardson, High Street, Boston, from 9am-5pm; at Chris Cook Print, in Main Ridge East, Boston, from 9am-5pm; at The Old Bakehouse in Wide Bargate, Boston; and at the Black Bull Inn, London Road, in Kirton.

Austrian band to play at the Axe and Cleaver pub

Austria may be more known for its classical music but US label-signed band Cornerstone say they plan to rock Boston on Friday. The band, comprised of Alina Peter (vocals, guitars), Michael Wachelhofer (bass, keyboards, vocals), Steve Wachelhofer (guitar, vocals) and Christoph Karas (drums, percussions) blend 80s rock, mixed with the harder edge of today's alternative rock sounds.

They will be supported on the night by 'punk n rollers' Kamikaze Hotshot who have a great on-stage presence. The gig starts at about 8pm at the pub, in West Street. Entry is free.
